The screenshot shows the homepage of the Los Ranchitos Improvement Association. At the top left, there is a logo of a tree and the text 'San Rafael, California 94903'. Below this is a 'Welcome, Visitor!' section with a 'Sign In Find Your Neighborhood' button. The main navigation bar includes 'Home', 'Our Info', 'Calendar', and 'Pages & Links'. A banner below the navigation bar says 'Live here? Request Member Access to see members-only pages and join the discussions!'. The central content area features a large landscape photo and the heading 'About the Los Ranchitos Improvement Association'. Below this is a paragraph describing the LRIA as an association representing homeowners and residents of the Los Ranchitos neighborhood in San Rafael, California, since 1952. Another paragraph describes the neighborhood as a quaint area of 1+ acre properties near highway 101. A third paragraph mentions that the 170 properties date back to the late 1940s. A final paragraph asks visitors to request access to the private area of the website by clicking a link to 'Request Membership Access' or sending an email to lriaboard@gmail.com. On the right side, there is a 'Our Info' section with a map and a 'Membership' section. The 'Membership' section states 'Membership in this website is private.' and has a red box around the 'Request membership access.' link. Below that is a 'Calendar' section with a 'More...' link.
